6,500,000 FARMERS ARE SEEKING LEGISLATION

Says the Farmers Will Know Where To Place the Blame

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A demand for consideration of Henry Ford's offer for the government Muscle Shoals project at the present session of congress was made upon house leaders today by Representative Almon, Democrat, of Alabama.

Almon declared 6,500,000 farmers were urging congress to act on the Ford offer before it recessed over the November elections.

Almon declared "there was no valid excuse" for failing to reach a decision on Ford proposal and charged opposition to it came from the fertilizer and Chilean nitrate trust and the aluminum monopoly.

"This legislation is not sectional, nor political," said Almon. "It is a great economic question in which all of our people are interested. No other subject in this congress has attracted such favorable and nation-wide interest and attention."

"These farmers represent an investment of $80,000,000,000 by far the greatest of any other interest. Do not let any member of this house deceive himself in thinking that the interest in the Ford bill is confined to the farmers in any section or limited part of the country."

"You cannot satisfy the country by saying that the work is proceeding on one of the power dams at Muscle Shoals. This, of itself, makes no provision for the manufacture of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals. If the Ford offer is accepted now by congress the company would proceed to spend many millions of its own money in converting the munitions plant at Muscle Shoals into a fertilizer plant and have it ready for operation by the time the waterpower is developed."

"The opposition to the Ford offer is confined to selfish interests, such as the fertilizer and Chilean nitrate trust, the power interests and the aluminum monopoly."

"No valid reason has or can be given for denying the members of the house this right. The people are expecting it and if it is not permitted, they will know where to place responsibility for such failure."

Ellis McCloud On Trial Before Jury

Ellis McCloud pleaded guilty today in the criminal court to murder, and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

The case of Ellis McCloud, negro, charged with the murder of a white man by the name of Henderson near Lacy's Springs several weeks ago, was the first case called in the criminal court today. The alleged murder is alleged to have taken place near the W. J. Walling place, close to the banks of the Tennessee river. McCloud was apprehended at St. Louis, Mo., the sheriff here being notified, went there for the prisoner. McCloud when arrested in the Missouri city was heavily armed it was said.

The work of qualifying the jury for this case was taken up shortly after court was called today. Attorneys Powell and Price are representing the defendant. Circuit Solicitor Almon and County Solicitor Almon represent the state.

HANDLES SHIPPED TO ALMOST EVERY PART
OF THE NATION FROM BIG LOCAL FACTORY

C. W. Peters and W. H. Scanlon
Operate Busy Business
Near River

PRODUCT IS SHIPPED
TO THE FAR NORTH

Everybody Working There Putting Final Touches On Excellent Product

(By J. E. Blair.)

C. W. Peters and W. H. Scanlon help their operatives run a mighty busy business. It is located out west from Bank street Decatur, close to the Tennessee river. If you chanced into their plant, which is a factory for making handles "for all kinds of edged tools" said Mr. Peters you would see everybody working.

"There is no over head expense here" declared Mr. Scanlon as he was seen finishing an axe handle for the far north.

It ought to be recorded right here, that as people out to the northwest use gloves when they "cut wood" the axe handles meant for that section of the nation have very small compared to our southern axe handles.

The Sound of Machinery.
The buzz of the slab-saw is the first thing to attract attention at the Peters-Scanlon Handle factory. Mr.
Peters called it the "bolting saw," anyway it cuts off the bark from the 40 inch hickory logs (none but hickory timber is used) brought in by the farmers of this and adjoining counties, and leaves a square like piece called a "blank."

Next a "blocking saw" cuts the "tobe" handle into something like a handle. The laythes then do an ingenious work. They not only "turn" the handles but they also shape them the exact shape of a "master piece" handle attached to the lathes. This "master piece" is so placed that it raises and lets fall the baby handle as it is being shaped inch by inch exactly according to the master piece. The "Master handle" is three times as large as the completed handle.

At every revolution of the handle the turning tool of the lathe cuts a distance of 3-4 of an inch. The handles revolve 54 times a minute. These very peculiar lathes make hundreds of handles all different shapes according to the "master handle" used. After the lathes are done, the rough but properly shaped handle is "throated."

Then an "equalizer" does its job, still further shaping the still rough looking handle; by cutting it an exact length and by making that handle-bevel familiar to all who ever chopped wood. The "header," next cuts around the place where the axe is fitted to the handle.

"The grinding oil" next does a big job by smoothing off the handle to a certain extent.

But other and smoother grinding belts are used until the handle begins to look like it "had had enough." But a polishing belt has to be used still;
and in some instances a gummy resin is used to completely fill the pores of the wood. King cotton has to function before handles are ready for the market. He has to furnish the ducking that makes the belts, that in-turn hold and carry the materials that go into the making of this filler or resin. Also cotton ducking makes the belts that hold and carry the hard grits that grind the handles into shape. These grits originally came from far off Switzerland, but now they are "made in America" precisely as our manufacturers make carborundum out of which our high speed "emery" stones are made, that grind the new grades of hard tool steel such as are used at the Jervis Machine shop.

COCA COLA KING'S SON SUED BY WOMAN

Mrs. Sarah G. Byfield, Walter T. Candler, Clyde K. Byfield, Mrs. Walter T. Candler.

Walter T. Candler, son of the multi-millionaire Coca Cola King of Atlanta, Ga., has been sued for $100,000 by Mrs. Sarah Gillespie Byfield, wife of Clyde K. Byfield, an Atlanta automobile dealer. She alleges she was attacked by Candler in her cabin on the liner Berengaria while en route to Europe. She and her husband were guests of Candler, to take care of his two little children. Her husband attacked Candler and later received from Candler a note for $25,000 as a result of the episode. Candler sued to void the note, and Mrs. Byfield replied by instituting suit. Candler is separated from his wife, who is now in California and who once was friendly with Mrs. Byfield, with whom she was pictured at the Druid Hills Race Course, in Atlanta.

Touching Scene When Albritton Appears For Hearing In U. S. Court

(By International News Service.)
BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 25.—There was a touching scene in the courtroom of U. S. Commissioner Kenneth C. Charlton here this morning when Euell S. Albritton, former resident of Gadsden, appeared for a hearing on charges of conspiracy to defraud by use of the United States mails.

Albritton was surrounded by members of his family, most of whom were in tears. He seemed to be little disturbed over the charges against him. His complexion was ruddy, his eyes sparkled, his greetings to those about him were cheerful, in short, he appeared to be in perfect health and without a care in the world.

After a short discussion by attorneys on both sides, Albritton was bound over in the sum of $5,000 to appear for a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Charlton on September 2. Commissioner Charlton stated that if, for any reason, the time of the hearing should be delayed, he would entertain a motion to reduce the bond.

Albritton has not yet made bond.

NAME CANDIDATES FOR ALDERMEN

the four wards of Albany Thursday night, with the following citizens of the various wards being nominated for aldermen in their respective wards.

First Ward—Ed Berry, and Ed
Cherry.

Second Ward—Walter Williams,
and L. R. Yarbrough.

Third Ward—J. W. McCall, and G.
W. Norwood.

Fourth Ward—Cliff H. Chunn, T. G.
Crane, F. L. Chenault, F. L. Adams and L. B. Wyatt. A general mass-meeting is called tonight at the Albany city hall, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for mayor, chief of police and president of the Considerable interest is expected to develop at the mass meeting tonight, and municipal politics can now be said to be fairly off on the first lap of the journey.

Contract Awarded For New School

The contract for building the new school building at Flint, has been warded to C. E. Malone of Albany.
This building is to be a modern school building, and to the progressive citizens of Flint, is due much of the credit for a building which will take care of their educational needs for many years to come. Work on the new building is to begin at once.

STRIKERS THANKED BY JEWELL FOR THE SPIRIT SHOWN HERE

The following official statement was issued today by H. C. Hutchinson, chairman of the press committee of the federated shop crafts:

The rail strikers meeting this morning was a very enthusiastic in every respect. The meeting was opened with prayer by Chaplin L. E. Toon, followed by a musical program, a solo "Somebody's Mother is Waiting" by Cy Graham and a quartet composed of Roberts, Sybert, Sparkman, and Gravat rendered "Beautiful Land".

The usual reports were made and heartily received. The publicity committee read a letter from B. M. Jewell expressing his personal thanks for the manner in which way the strike has been conducted. Loyal spirit was shown and words of encouragement were given. The committee read from press reports that the number of rail road executives willing to mediate has increased to fifty or more up to the present time and with a possibility of more coming over.

W. H. Wilson, general chairman of the Boiler Makers, of the L. & N. system made a very impressive speech on the results of standing together at all times as shown by the various organizations who have gained their rights for industrial democracy from time to time. The speaker also quoted some verses from Emerson, which was applauded.

The meeting closed with prayer by
T. B. Harwell.

NEGRO REPORTED SERIOUSLY SHOT

Military headquarters here this morning reported a negro named Montgomery was seriously, but not dangerously, shot last night by members of a band of seven masked men.
The shooting was said to have occurred on the Courtland road, outside of the city, when Montgomery was coming from his home to town.

Captain Burleson said his reports were that the negro was met by the band, turned around toward home and as he started down the road, was fired upon.

JAMES READER GETS
SENTENCE FOR LIFE
FROM JURY, CHARGED WITH KILLING BABY

Prominent Farmer Convicted
Today In Morgan County
Circuit Court

BIG CROWDS ATTENDED
ALL OF THE SESSIONS

Arguments of Attorneys Were Completed At Night Session
Thursday

James Reader, prominent farmer of the Cross Lane's community, this county, today was convicted by a jury in the circuit court on a charge of murder, in connection with the death of the infant of Emma Johnson, and sentenced to imprisonment for life in the penitentiary.

The Reader case, which consumed the entire day Thursday in the criminal division of the circuit court, went to the jury at 9:30 o'clock p. m. The jury immediately went to the jury room to consider the evidence, and after deliberating until 10:20 o'clock, not being able to arrive at a verdict, they were taken to their hotel in charge of a deputy sheriff to spend the night. They went into session today at 7 o'clock, returning the verdict as follows: "We the jury find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, with penalty of life imprisonment."

It was during the qualifying of jurors for another murder case that the announcement was made to the presiding judge that they had arrived at a verdict. The jury was ushered into the court room, and a hush fell over the crowded room as the usual question was propounded by the judge to the jury. "Gentlemen have you arrived at a verdict?" being answered in the affirmative, the written verdict was handed the circuit clerk who read it.

Evidence was concluded shortly after 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, argument beginning shortly thereafter. Attorney Cliff Almon opened for the state, followed by Attorney Powell for the defendant. During the speech of Mr. Hutson for the defense, adjournment was taken for supper, the case being resumed thereafter, argument of Circuit Solicitor Almon closing for the state, at 9 p. m. The charge of Judge Kyle consumed about 30 minutes, the case going to the jury at 8:30 p. m. It is understood that defendant's attorneys are considering an appeal.

No case of recent years has attracted so large a crowd to the courthouse as was present all during the trial Thursday and into the night, until the case went to the jury at 9:30 o'clock last evening. This was accounted for from the fact that Mr.
Reader had lived in this county for a long time, and bore a splendid reputation. He was a farmer, and lived near the Cross Lanes in the southeastern part of the county. He had many intimate friends all over the county who were interested in his behalf, and spent the day under the most uncomfortable circumstances listening to the evidence.

So great was the congestion in the court room Thursday afternoon, that Judge Kyle ordered the sheriff to keep others out. The room was rowded to suffocation, every available point of vantage being taken in the effort to hear the testimony of witnesses in the case. On orders of the court a deputy was stationed at each door leading to the court room, and no one was allowed to enter.

to the capitol that they raided one out six hundred gallons of mash. No arrests were made.

Strike Leader Signifies Intention of Conferring With His "Cabinet"

STATEMENTS ISSUED
BY BOTH CONFEREES

Jewell Says Executives Not Yet Willing to Recede From Position

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Negotiations of the "Willard group" of railway executives, representing 52 American railroads, and the chiefs of the five railroad brotherhoods, for settlement of the railway shopmen's strike, have collapsed, it was officially announced this afternoon.

Despite the failure of the conference, B. M. Jewell, leader of the shopmen, signified his intention of calling together the committee of 90 general chairmen of the shop craft unions, to give further consideration to the question of separate agreements with the roads that are willing to settle on that basis.

Jewell issued a statement, putting the blame for the breakdown of the conference on the executives, saying:
"The conferences have shown that the group of roads that have been conferring will, at present, make no concessions. They stand firm on the position of the Association of Railway Executives, which refuses seniority requests."

A statement, telling of the breakdown of the negotiations, was issued by a sub-committee of five railway executives, representing the Association of Railway Executives. It was signed by President Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio; A. H.
Smith, of the New York Central; Hale Holden, of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; N. D. Mahor, of the Norfolk and Western and W. J. Harrington, of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

After reviewing the conferences that had been held at the Yale club on Wednesday evening and Thursday, the report said:

"Having in mind the normal requirements of the carriers for men of the shopcrafts at this season of the year, together with the increased requirements resulting from a reduced working force for nearly two months, these companies, while unwilling to agree to any program or method of adjustment, which would affect the rights or privileges of the employees of the shop crafts who did not take part in the strike or those who had been employed since July 1, were willing to find employment for all of the striking employees, not guilty of proven acts of violence, at their usual class of work at the rate of pay fixed by the U. S. railway labor board and at the same terminal points."

CONCESSIONS MADE

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Attempts to end the shopmen's strike by separate settlements with individual roads failed today and the conferences were broken off. The rail executives are preparing to leave town.

In announcing the break of negotiations, David Williams, head of the Eastern strike committee, said:
"Nothing else could have happened.
If they'll quit fussing around, we'll beat these fellows."

From unofficial sources it was learned the break came when the labor men rejected a proposal regarded by the rail executives as a big concession.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

A REMARKABLE ADVENTURER

Enver Bey, the remarkable adventurer who dominated and then ruined his native country of Turkey, is dead. He was killed while fighting in a Turkish army against the Bolsheviks.

No other country affords a parallel to the career of Enver Bey. An unknown Turkish officer of the army, without influential family of political friends, he came to be a greater figure than the Sultan himself and directed his country at a grave crisis in its history and directed it disastrously. Enver Bey in the beginning drew around him several strong men of Turkey, gifted in intrigue. His principal aid was Talant, who was assassinated a few months ago on the streets of Berlin by a young Armenian whose family had been victims of the late Turkish massacre.

This group called themselves the Young Turkish party, and party for progress. They finally won control of the government, and to their credit deposed and practically kidnapped Abdul, the Damned, the sultan and set their own man up in his place. This was probably to their credit. But they also made the decision which led to the disaster on the side of Germany in the great war. Enver had been trained in the German army. He did not think the allies had a chance to win the war. This decision was disastrous to the ancient Turkish Empire. Three years after the close of the war the fate of Turkey, as a nation, is still unsettled. Turkey is still trying to recover in diplomatic councils what she lost on the battle field. She holds undisputed possession of any fraction of her former territory and has passed as a factor in European affairs. Constantinople, the capital, is under a sort of international protectorate with which Turkey has nothing to do.

Turkey lost heavily in the war. Many thousands of her best men were killed, and while she was successful in bloody repulsing the English attack on the Dardanelles, an English force later drove a great military wedge through the country and practically destroyed the Turkish army.

Enver fled into Germany with many other Turkish officers when the collapse came. But when the time for intrigues came following the war, that particular work called him. He returned to Turkey, where he was the most unpopular man in the domain of the Empire. His life was in constant danger and several attempts were made to assassinate him. He tried to line up several of the mushroom countries and republics that came out of the war as allies with Turkey. Unsuccessful in this, he went into Russia and was reported as striving for an alliance of Turkey with the Bolsheviks as a force which could face the world. Convinced that the Soviet government was maneuvering to alienate dependencies, people and territory from Turkey, he made his escape from Moscow as Lenin and Trotsky were preparing to put him in jail.

He went into Turkey where he dropped from the sight of the world. It is now learned that he raised an army and gave battle to the Bolsheviks. —Montgomery Advertiser.

A BIG STORY COMING

Everybody is expectant. A big story is coming. But from where? A newspaper writer with laudable ambitions to find out writes The Journal to give his version of it.

"In the vernacular of the street, something big is going to break in Europe within the next few months. There is a feeling expressed by returning Americans who I have interviewed that Austria is on the verge of political and economic collapse, and the same thing might be said of other countries. The German mark is at a new low level. The French franc is worth less than half its normal value."

That is one view; it is the viewpoint of a newspaper man. But the real news that is to come to us, that is expected to suddenly break upon an expectant world, is of a different variety. It will be the biggest story in all history. It may not break on us today or tomorrow, but scientists say it is almost certain, and you know you must not question the wisdom of scientists. Revolutions, world wars, wreck and ruin of empires and republics will all seem small when the "big" news comes.

The story in question is that which will flash around this old earth when finally communication comes with another planet, whether it be Mars or Venus, as they are called by Earthfolk.

Think what will happen, even outside the tremendous story of the first dispatches! Magazines will take another trend. Novelists will cease to use their fancy and will base their themes on fact. Motion picture plots will contain little else than that. Our whole literature will change.

This will not come, of course, until either our code is deciphered, or their code is worked by us. But that will happen as surely as codes were so romantically untangled by the master Poe. —Montgomery Journal.

Another supposed pre-Columbian voyage to America is that of the Polish pilot, John Szkolny, who is said to have sailed in 1476 to Greenland, in the service of Christian I of Denmark, and to have touched upon the coast of Labrador. This also has been shown to be a myth; no such voyage was ever made.—From Labrador by W. T. Grenfell and Others.

PRESENT STYLES NOT SO BAD

It appears, after all, that long since the revels of Flora in ancient Rome, there has been worse garb for women than one sees on Fifth avenue today. Lady Norah Bentinck, who wrote a book about the former Kaiser in exile, calls attention to some of the individual vagaries of the recent past, as an indication that conformity to fashion may really have a restraining effect instead of the reverse. She says:

"Princess Pauline Metternich, at a state ball at the Tuileries, appeared before Napoleon III and the Empress Eugenie with her hair hanging down her back and nude to the waist. The Princess Castiglione was notorious for the beauty of her figure, and her sculptured leg is in one of the chief museums of Italy today. At a ball she was so little clothed that the Empress Eugenie ordered her chamberlain to take to the princess a shawl."

One of Napoleon's women was so proud of her legs and feet that she drove about Rome with her bare legs hanging out of the carriage window. —From the Argonaut.

"Stop, look and live" would be a better sign to place at the deadly crossings, according to the ever increasing accidents which happen at points every day. Until people are willing to act in a sane manner; taking care to preserve their own lives and those of other passengers of the car in which they are riding, by the exercise of a little sound judgment, and know of a certainty that there is no approaching train coming their way, the and then only can they be assured of safety.

The leaves turn to gold with the ever returning autumn, but the secret of their verdure with every returning springtime is safely locked in the life giving principle of the tree, yet it performs its duty, when nature awakened by the warmth of a Spring sun again expresses the life principle in the verdure with which they are annually adorned.

Many a farmer boy will soon be enabled to rattle the coin of the realm for the first time in a twelve month period, and my how he does enjoy it. To many of the farmer boys it doesn't come every month in the year, and when these annual occasions roll round, he is all pent up with the right kind of enthusiasm, for he has obtained it by the labor of his hands the sweat of his brow.

A fellow hasn't had any real troubles to come his way until he has to wait while a boy while dinner is being served, and is at advantage point to see something he dearly loves on the menu, fast disappearing, and fears his portion may be gone when his chance comes.

The fellow who "hews to the line let the chips fall where they may", has no time to observe if every chip is lying in perfect position. He is concerned with something far greater; the ultimate carrying to a successful conclusion the work he may have in hand.

Secretary Hughes took a long and uncertain stride, when he assayed an attempt to defend Truman H. Newberry. It reminds one of the fluttering attempts of a mother quail to call attention away from her brood of young close by.

Lo, this is the way; lo, that is the way, has been held up to countless thousands from time immemorial. It is the same today. The populace is still inquiring, which way?

If every hill was a mountain, and every disaster was a certainty as we see them in the distance on the road-way of life, humanity would stumble and fall from fatigue and fear.

The dollar tree requires more cultivation before one can shake fruit from it than most trees, and the fruit is generally on the topmost branches, not very easy of access either.

And spoke just as she should:
Don't you think she'd be as popular?
I hardly think she would.

A SHOWER OF JOOLS.

The manager of a western baseball team posted the following sign in the office: "No game today—couldn't get a diamond."

The ad man asked, "Why not get a ruby?"

"Because, that's sapphire away," wrote the makeup man.

"Well, no need to get sardonyx about it," scribbled one of the linotypers.

"O nyx" wrote the pressman.

Then the cub reporter wrote: "Accept the manager's apologies," and tore down the sign.

MUST BE A MAN HATER

Two business women were discussing the relative merits of men and women engaged in business.

"Women are more loyal than men," declared one. "If she loves him there is nothing she wouldn't do for him. She would lie for him; steal for him." "Then I guess I have never loved one," declared the one emphatically. "I will lie to 'em and steal from 'em, but never for 'em."

EVANS "TALKS" CADDIES THROUGH COLLEGE

Charles Chick Evans

When the First National Caddies' Championship was originally discussed the question of expense arose, for even caddies cannot remain amateurs if they take money for anything but caddying. So Charles "Chick" Evans, golf champion, a former caddy and now a Chicago banker, agreed to "talk off" the expenses of the match, to be held at the Edgewater Golf Club, Chicago, in September. Accordingly, he arranged to give golf lessons in talking machine records, every cent thus received to go for the "Caddy Championship Fund." So successful have been the records that enough money has been provided to send the five best caddy golfers, through college, and golfers have gotten valuable hints from the noted player.

CHARLES JONES COMING IN "WESTERN SPEED" DELITE FRIDAY.

Charles Jones, the popular William Fox star, comes to the Delite Theater Friday in "Western Speed," a story by the famous magazine writer, William Patterson White.

From the opening flash to the closing scene Jones ranges romantically through a series of fist fights, gun battles and daring rides which net him the love of the woman who earlier in the story held him in utter hatred. The picture affords the rough and rugged hero ample opportunity to display the talents which have made him so beloved by motion picture enthusiasts the world over.

"Western Speed" is said to be packed with the stirring action of the plains, showing Jones at his best. It's described as a story with more speed than a tornado and more power than an earthquake; one that will send a thrill through the spines of even the most sophisticated. Eileen Percy is seen as the heroine.

How Careful Grooming Brings True Beauty Into Being Again

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

Many women never completely give up their inborn desire for beauty. But if truth be told, a very few of them, so near abandoning it altogether, that the distinction is very subtle. This apparent indifference in the beauty quest can usually be put down as carelessness. But sometimes, so far has this carelessness progressed that one would have to probe far into its owner's heart to be sure that a desire for beauty is there.

The day of the spinster is past, but we all remember this much-caricatured person, who always wore her hair in a tight knot at the back of her head. If there was a vestige of beauty in her coiffure, no one could have discovered it. Even hair of the loveliest color would suffer under so severe an arrangement, and the spinster's hair was sure to be drab. If she was the sort of person who would fix her hair in that unbecoming way, she was sure to have given up any systematic care of it long ago.

Though the bachelor maid, or in the new order of things, the girl who never grows old, has taken the place of the spinster, we occasionally see a woman who is almost as unbending in her personal appearance.

How can the woman who realizes the pleasure to herself and others of personal charm allow herself to be apparently so unindifferent to it? It is in all of us to love beauty, whether it be in a sunset, a picture or a rare old vase. The first way to show this innate love of beautiful things is to spare no effort in enhancing the charm of our own personal appearance.

The most unselfish example of the person who allows her personal charm to deteriorate is the busy mother who sacrifices everything to the welfare of her children.

Many of you mothers who read this will probably look back to the time when you considered careful brushing of your hair and scrupulous attention to your finger-nails part of your daily curriculum. Then little John or Mary came, and perhaps later there were others. Household cares piled up, and the growing children needed increasing attention.

Densons of little duties, such as proper care of nails, hair and complexion seemed to come under the head of luxury. Gradually you stopped all extra and seemed to do only those things for yourself which were absolutely necessary.

My dear, this is a great mistake. It is never too late to pay all possible attention to your personal appearance. It is perfectly true that some of your good looks may have gone, but the longer you postpone your pursuit of them the further away they will get. And, worse yet, the good looks you still have may vanish. It is wonderful what a marked improvement a certain amount of careful grooming can bring about, and it is up to you to prove this for yourself.

If you are a self-sacrificing mother, who feels that she would rather give time and effort to her children than spend it on herself, make yourself look forward to later years. They will find you a more pleasant companion if you have stayed young in mind and body—and, by the way, this beauty quest applies to beauties of mind as well as external ones.

Manage to get out so that you will formulate new ideas and keep wide-awake, interesting and interested. This worthy aim is one which will repay itself both in satisfaction to you and the added pleasure you give to others.

HOGS COMING BACK TO OLD IMPORTANCE AMONG FARM ANIMALS

LIKE MONEY IN THE BANK

PRINCE ALBERT, SASK.—Pigs are more than pigs in Western Canada. They are a sound basis of farm prosperity.

Hog production declined somewhat in the West after the war. This was due to a falling off in price in the markets of the world.

But Canadian farmers remained loyal to their porkers. And their policy has been justified. Hogs are coming back. Prices have advanced and are expected to go higher.

The bacon hog has been the favorite of Canadian breeders. This is the hog of English tradition. Today Canadian bacon is a rival in British markets of the famous White Star sides.

The government has steadily encouraged Canadian farmers to stick to hogs. It foresaw that eventually hogs must regain their position in farm economy. Following the government's advice farmers have retained their herds. Settlers pouring into the rich mixed farming country along the transcontinental lines of the Canadian National Railway always add hogs to their livestock. This region is tightly timbered, rolling, well-watered and is ideal for all kinds of farm animals. It has developed an extensive livestock industry and is winning fame as a dairy region.

An added impetus was given to hog raising by the decision of the large Canadian packers to pay a premium of 10 per cent on bacon hogs. This premium, announced early in the year, went into effect in May.

BANK STREET

"May, how in the world do you manage to bake such fine things—without ever a failure?"
"Oh, that's no trick at all. The flour itself is responsible—I use Valier's Dainty you know."

Economical
in three distinct ways

UNUSUALLY fine, full-flavored baking is not the only advantage to expect of Valier's Dainty Flour.

Dainty is milled from only the creamy white centers of choice, prime soft winter wheat.

The quality of Dainty is so high and so uniform that Dainty never causes a failure. That's economy No. 1.

And because it is milled from such fine wheat, Dainty requires less lard. That's economy No. 2.

Dainty costs less than it did last year. That's economy No. 3.

Dainty must always cost more than ordinary flour because Dainty quality wheat costs more than ordinary wheat—but the little extra you pay for Dainty this year will buy you more baking satisfaction than ever before.

BILIOUS CHILDREN

Black-Draught, Long in Successful Use, Praised by an Arkansas Mother, "Soon Does Its Work."

Marmaduke, Ark.—Speaking of Theodor's Black-Draught, which from long use in her household has become regarded as "the family medicine," Mrs. Mary E. Hill, of Route 1, this place, says:

"When the children get bilious, I give them a couple of good doses, and when we have sour stomach, headache, or any liver or stomach trouble, we use Black-Draught. It is an easy laxative, and soon does the work. I certainly think it is one of the best remedies made."

Black-Draught acts on the faded liver, gently, but positively, and helps it in its important function of throwing out waste materials and poisons from the system.

In thousands of households Black-Draught is kept handy for immediate use in time of need. Prompt treatment often is half the battle, and will often prevent slight ills from developing into serious troubles.

Its well-established merit, during more than 70 years of successful use, should convince you of the helpful effects obtainable by taking Black-Draught for liver and stomach disorders. Get a package today, and keep it in your house. See that the package bears the words, "Theodor's Black-Draught." NO-145—Advertisement.

POLLY AND HER PALS

MOSQUITOES

Where They Breed and How to Get Rid of Them

By COL. WM. D. WRIGHTSON, Sanitary Engineer.

Mosquitoes are a nuisance and a menace to health. They are annoying, tantalizing pests and we should use every endeavor to rid ourselves of them. They won't let us sit on our front porches these hot nights and alk and read but they must come round singing in our ears, and biting our faces and hands and ankles and getting us into such a state we feel like committing murder. And then after we go to bed they follow us into the room and sing and bite us all night long, and pretty soon some of us are down with malaria. Yes, they carry diseases. They transmit yellow fever, malaria or chills and fever and dengue or break-bone fever.

Why do we put up with them when they are so easily got rid of? Let us all get together and rid ourselves of these pests so that we can live in comfort and peace. It doesn't cost much—only a little effort on the part of each and every one of us.

Where They Breed.

Mosquitoes breed in all collections of water and it takes from ten days to three weeks to turn out a crop, depending upon the temperature of the water. They breed in ditches, ponds, wells, fountains, keaspoons, shallow wells, troughs, hoof prints of cattle, tanks, cisterns, rain spouts, barrels, boxes, bottles, tubs, buckets, tin cans, and in fact everything that will hold water. There is no collection of water too small for them to breed in.

DON'T'S

Don't raise mosquitoes to worry you and your neighbors.
Don't throw tin cans and bottles in the back yard or on the vacant lot. Put them in the covered garbage can where they can do no harm.

Don't fail to screen your home with No. 16 mesh wire.

Don't let the grass grow high. Cut it short so the mosquito has no hiding place.

Don't forget to put a tight fitting cover or screening over your cistern.

Don't let your rain spout get clogged with leaves and twigs.

Don't let the drain from ice box form a pool under the house.

Don't forget to empty the flower pot saucers and the vases within the house at least once a week.

Don't fail to stock your fountain with gold fish or top feeding minnows.

Don't be a public nuisance. Get into the game and play squarely.

REMEMBER.

Remember to set your neighbor an example by cleaning up your place.

Remember one tin can or bottle can turn out enough mosquitoes to worry the neighborhood.

Remember to inspect your place today for water containers.

Remember no stagnant water—no mosquitoes.

Remember to clean the ditch on your property. It may be the source of all trouble in your neighborhood.

Remember mosquitoes transmit malaria.

Remember to be a help to the community and not a detriment.

Remember that thorough your carelessness your neighbor is all with chills and fever.

Remember if we destroy all collections of water we destroy mosquitoes.

Remember one well man is worth a dozen sick ones.

Remember there is no collection of water too small for mosquitoes to breed in.

Remember to call on the Health Department for advice. They know and they are there to help you.

Remember we are living in an age of progress. Let's progress.

PRINCIPALS SPEAK.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 25.—(Special).—Addresses on the problem of the various phases of education work in the high schools were made at the second day's conference of high school principals of Alabama today. Miss Sarah E. Luther, director of exceptional education, gave a number of instances to show the work which can be done with adult illiterates. After her address a resolution was adopted endorsing the work which is being done by this department.

Addresses also were made by Miss Ivor Spaffor; W. L. Spencer, Virgil P. McKinley and J. B. Hobbs, all touching the problems which high school principals will face during their terms.

DOG WAS MAD

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 25.—(Special).—Dr. J. W. May of Mobile today sent the head of a dog to the state laboratory and the investigation showed that it had hydrophobia. One boy, whose name was not given, was bitten by the dog. Anti-rabic treatment will be administered to him in Mobile.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Less than half the "flivver" owners in New York are owning and driving the cars they are duly registered for. Look up the license numbers and confront them with the fact, and the fifty-five or sixty percent will shrug their shoulders and agree. "One flivver is just like another," they explain. "What's the difference? You step up to the curb where you parked your car and get into one just like your own and drive off. Maybe it's yours and maybe it isn't. Who cares? I haven't noticed my license number lately and couldn't say offhand whether this is my original car or not—even the cue I drove last week. "The police force of the city just discovered this condition the other day, when one of them took in Jacob Lieberman's car because he left it in front of a fire hydrant, and then objected to giving it back to him because the license didn't appear in his name. "Flivvers nowadays are just like umbrellas," he explained. "I people leave them around everywhere and take whatever they find." Investigation among auto drivers persuaded the detectives that the majority agreed with Mr. Lieberman.

Here is another influence on Wall street and its ramifications which hasn't figured in any financial graph I ever saw—feminine happiness and comfort outside of office hours! An evening in a cold room, with a flickering gaslight will throw a woman worker's nerves so out of gear that they react disastrously upon the whole office force next day and engender an atmosphere of gloom that penetrates far into the business in hand. So declares Walbridge S. Taft, managing partner of the law office of Henry W. Taft, and nephew of the ex-President. It isn't feminine temperament or lack of serious ambition, he insists, which sometimes makes women less stable and constructive workers than men—it's landladies and boarding houses. Men suffer those things, too? Surely, but they don't depend upon them for their whole secure hours of life. That's the difference. Mr. Taft has become an enthusiastic supporter of the plans for a business women's club because of that. "It will steady the whole world of affairs," he says. "The atmosphere of goodwill and sociability of a club, the social contacts, the swimming pools, Turkish baths, and all that goes with a men's club and which is planned for this women's club are the antidote for the worries of the day. When the business woman gets her own club house here in New York, to which she can belong whether she lives here or in San Francisco, it will be the hub of a gigantic wheel, a center of power and enthusiasm. Plans for the club are going forward under the organization of the American Women's Association.

The village hotels of New York state have interesting collections of silverware these days when their dinner tables are spread. Up at Danville the other day, a New Yorker almost wept at being served from the salad plates of the old Hotel Knickerbocker, known for years among Broadwayites as the Forty-Second.

Tales of Hoffman," and immediately cabled that Ben-Ami was the ideal actor for the part. A little thing like Ben-Ami being under the management of Arthur Hopkins made no difference, and arrangements were made to release him to the Selwyns for this production. He is the "find" of some years ago from the Yiddish Art Theater.

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true." Mrs. T. A. LANDRY, 612 Miss. St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"as it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines, just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.
